An investigation at the dawn of the Russian revolution

Summer of 1916. Alexandre Vladimirovitch Korsakov and his sister Larissa, discover the corpse of a murdered man. For the two aristocrats, this event brings their insouciant life to an end.

The police investigation directed by Alexéï Ivanovitch Narychkine, leads him to the classiest salons of Russian intelligentsia, to the threshold of the Imperial Palace and to the heart of the powerful Rasputin's intrigues.

As the most influential families plunge into hedonism to please the Czar Nicolas II, and as the Czarine entrusts Russia's destiny to Rasputin, Alexandre and Larissa will do everything to help their country.

Corinne Pouillot has lived in Russia for many years. Today, she has specialized her interest for Russian history, as she is the author of Pouchkine, the genius of love (Belfon 2004). She is also the author of many novels, including The Nile's Passions for which she has received the prize for love novels, Honore d'Urfe.

Imperial and mysterious Russia, the eerie figure of Rasputin...

The Princes' Pact leads the reader to the heart of intrigues and salons in which were determined Russia's fate.
